Nati negli anni '70 in Francia, iniziano ad occuparsi di design con un primo importante lavoro per Issey Miyake nel 2000. In pochi anni, già due monografie, il "Catalogue de Raison" e la successiva pubblicazione di Phaidon nel 2003 raccolgono le immagini del loro lavoro. I fratelli Bouroullec sono considerati fra i nuovi astri del mondo del design, giovani e rigorosi, riflessivi e nello stesso tempo appassionati; i loro progetti sono vere "micro architetture", utilizzabili per diverse funzioni e per caratterizzare e variare gli spazi in cui si collocano.
